The Fort Mason Foundation, a privately-funded nonprofit organization, is engaged in renovating surplus military buildings at Fort Mason, headquarters of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area. The Foundation administers Fort Mason Center which is located on the Bay between Aquatic Park and the Marina Green. In less than six years, the Center has become a national model for low-cost community-responsive urban parks.

We invite you to bring your conferences, classes, performances, meetings or benefits to Fort Mason. Space for suitable activities is available for a nominal daily or hourly fee. Enjoy the pleasure of teaching, working, or performing in this unusual national park location. Call 441-5706 for booking appointments and information.

TRADITIONAL CULTURE THROUGH FILM

Inside Traditional Culture: The Ethnographic Film" is the subject of a public forum which will be held Thursday, May 12th in Building A from 7:30-10:00pm. The event is the second in a series of forums dedicated to folklife and community studies, sponsored by the Western Regional Folklife Festival in conjunction with the National Park Service and Fort Mason Foundation.

For the May Forum, California filmmakers Pat Ferrero, John Adair, Les Blank and Jorge Preloran will discuss the art and business of making ethnographic films, addressing in particular the problem of representing native values and worldview. All share a concern that the subjects of their films should speak for themselves: for the most part each artist avoids voice-over editorializing and academic explanations scripted from a Western cultural viewpoint.

Pat Ferrero, visual anthropologist and associate professor at SF State, is best known for her film "Quilts in Women's Lives." John Adair is credited with first suggesting that film, like language, reflects worldview: his efforts to teach the Navajo technical aspects of filmmaking resulted in a series of home movies quite unlike any other produced by anthropologists. Les Blank's film repertoire covers a wide gamut of American traditional arts, additionally he recently completed a non-fiction feature "Burden of Dreams." Jorge Preloran has been described as the "Latin-American Bergman" and has sixty films to his credit.

Each filmmaker will illustrate his/her work with selected film clips. There will also be a rough-cut screening of Pat Ferrero's new film "Hopi: Land and Life" after a panel discussion. Public cost is $1 and refreshments will be served. For more information call 556-0560.

NEW EVENTS AT SMALL PRESS BOOKFAIR

Pacific Arts and Letters (PAL) 4th Annual Bay Area Small Press Bookfair being held in Building A of Fort Mason Center on May 7-8 will be considerably different from the past. The Bookfair will involve the public more, include an "Open Mike," computers and video, more foreign language books and on-site coverage of readings and interviews. Bookfair hours are Noon to 6pm on both days. Over 100 small presses from throughout the U.S. will be represented at the Bookfair which is FREE and open to the public. The special events held in an adjacent room will require tickets costing $2 which will be good for both days.

The special events include featured readings by San Francisco poets A. D. Winans and Todd S. J. Lawson. Mr. Winans, who will receive an award from PAL for his contributions to literature and the small press community, is the author of numerous books including North Beach Poems and The Tales of Crazy John. Mr. Lawson wrote The Empire of Howard Hughes and The 69 Days of Easter, and hosts a half-hour arts program on Cable Channel 25. Both writers have been actively involved in small press publishing for years and will read together on Saturday May 7 from 3:30-4:30pm.

This year, the Bookfair's organizers have dispensed with long open readings in favor of the more democratic "Open Mike" system. Any subject may be addressed by anyone for three minutes with a one minute grace period. The "Open Mike," featured readings and other events will be video-taped and edited by Channel 25 for later use on the "Lawson and Arts" program. Small press celebrity author and publisher interviews and some symposia will include interpreters for the deaf.

Some new and interesting things will be happening in the Bookfair exhibit area. Computers for writers, small presses, and the general public will be demonstrated and several presses will include books written in languages other than English. Hard to find books and alternative publications in a wide range of topics from children's stories to ethnic studies will be available. Poster displays and autograph signing will be part of the Bookfair and the public will have closer contact with small press authors and alternative publishers.

The Bookfair is a people watching event and many unannounced and well-known writers mingle with the crowd. Proceeds from the concessions go toward assisting the cultural and literary programs of Pacific Arts and Letters. This event will be wheelchair accessible and interpreters for the deaf will be available. A limited supply of tickets to the special events will be on sale at the door but patrons are advised to buy them in advance. For more information about the Bookfair and ticket sales call—771-3431.

FORT MASON OPEN HOUSE JUNE 26

BAY AREA THEATRE WEEK

Theatre Communications Center of the Bay Area and the Bay Area Theatre Alliance proudly announce plans for Bay Area Theatre Week, an exciting 9-day celebration of live theatre in the San Francisco region. The festivities, involving the participation of more than 40 theatre companies including those at Fort Mason Center, are scheduled for Friday May 6 through Sunday May 15.

The special theatre events this week and month at Fort Mason Center include; photo exhibits at Magic Theatre plus the performance of Sin, Sex and the Cinema, The Academy of Media and Theatre Art's advanced students' performance of a musical adaptation of Winnie the Pooh at People's Theatre, and an invitation to the public by the San Francisco Theatre Academy to sit-in on all improvisation classes during Bay Area Theatre Week. The People's Theatre will present Don't Start Me To Talkin' Or I'll Tell Everything I Know with the Provisional Theatre of LA, the Starcleaner Reunion from the Children's Troupe, and Antigone, performed by the Theatre of Yugen. In addition, The People's School of Dramatic Arts (a program of the People's Theatre Coalition) will be open for the Spring Session to offer programs, resources, space and theatre training to the community (for further information about these groups and events see daily listings).

Besides the programs at Fort Mason Center during Bay Area Theatre Week, the public will be able to sample diverse theatrical activities throughout San Francisco. Event highlights will be: a Union Square Costume Parade, Family Theatre Day at the Embarcadero Center, Bay Area Theatre Critics Circle Awards, Bank of America Theatre Festival, Theatre Day at the Exploratorium, a party at the Old Mint, and open houses, lectures and discussions at various theatres around the Bay Area. For more information about these events please call 750-3155 and ask for a FREE calendar.

Dear Friends,

We are considering adding something to the name Fort Mason Center which will enable our name to more accurately reflect what is actually happening in the Center. People have suggested to us that some simple modification in the name would communicate more fully the range of activities and the diverse organizations and individuals who make up this unique community.

We are not considering dropping Fort Mason from the name. Rather, we are thinking along the lines of _____ _____at Fort Mason (fill in the blanks) or Fort Mason Center for the _____ _____ (fill in the blanks).

If you would take a few minutes to think about this and let us know how you feel about this idea we would appreciate it. Furthermore, if you have any ideas about what those additional descriptive words could be, please let us know. Send your suggestions to IDEAS, Fort Mason Center, Bldg A, Marina Blvd. and Buchanan St., San Francisco, CA 94123

Thank you for your cooperation.

FESTIVAL OF THE SEA 1983

The annual Festival of the Sea will take place May 21 and 22 at the Historic Ships of the National Maritime Museum in San Francisco. The Festival is presented by the Maritime Humanities Center in cooperation with the Golden Gate National Recreation Area and is FREE and open to the public. Two days of activities are planned featuring concerts, dances, discussions, lectures, films, poetry and prose readings, children's programs and demonstrations, all concerned with our heritage of the sea.

Experts and performers at this year's festival include: Stan Hugill, international shantyman and scholar of sea music; Lou Killen, leading interpreter of English and American shanties and ballads; Joe Kahaulelio, foremost performer of Hawaiian chants; George Blake demonstrating the dugout canoe; San Hinton, folklorist, singer and expert in children's programming; Jon Bartlett and Rika Reubsaat, specialists and teachers of Canadian and French-Canadian fishing songs, shanties and ballads; and Jim Nelson, scholar and performer of Scandinavian sea music.

The mission of the Maritime Humanities Center is to share with the public their heritage of the sea and to stimulate maritime studies, especially of the west coast. The Center also sponsors Public Forums throughout the year and maintains a tape library of oral histories and sea related events.

Hours for the Festival of the Sea are 10:30am-6pm on Saturday and 11am to 6pm on Sunday. For more information call 771-3488/89.
